M: Okay. We have the hanging ivy plant in two kinds of pots, a triangle-shaped one and a square-shaped one.
W: Hmm.... It's hard to choose. They're both nice.
M: Well, the square-shaped one can also be put on the table, but the triangle-shaped one is more stylish.
W: I like the triangle-shaped one better.
M: Then, we have one with stripes and one without stripes.

W: Yes! I called several times, but no one answered.

M: Hmm.... That's not possible, ma'am. Our phone line is open 24 hours a day.

W: Then, are you telling me that I'm a liar?

M: Of course not. Are you sure you called the right number?

W: Yes, I am! I ended up taking another taxi but I missed the meeting anyway.

M: I apologize on behalf of our company.

W: You apologize? I lost a really important business client because of your company!

3. 다음을 듣고, 남자가 하는 말의 주제로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

M: Good afternoon, everyone. Last week, we discussed how to select a topic for your speech. Today, I'd like to talk about an effective way to open the lines of communication with the audience: Use the names of people in the audience. Before your speech, ask the master of ceremonies for the names of some of the people in the audience. Mention the names you learned in your speech. Then, you'll be able to see the pleasure on the faces of the people whose names are used. This way, you can build a personal connection with your audience. This, in turn, helps draw their attention to your speech. It's a simple technique but its effect is powerful.

W: Well, I've been taking lessons from an instructor at the Saturday School program. She's a really dedicated teacher.

M: That's great! [Pause] Actually, I've been wanting to learn how to play the piano myself.

W: Why don't you take lessons, too? Do you want me to ask her if she could take another student?

M: That would be great! You have a piano lesson this Saturday too, right?

W: Yes, but I won't be able to make it this week. I need to volunteer at the public library this Saturday.

M: That's a good idea, but I have a report to finish by six o'clock, so I can't go. Would you mind taking the laundry and washing it for me?

W: Thanks. Bandaging your ankle is just a temporary fix. You should go and see a doctor immediately.

M: But I don't want to miss my music class this afternoon.

W: I'm afraid you'll have to. Look! Your ankle is already starting to swell.

W: I'll set up a training program for you. Make sure you follow it every day. After all, practice makes perfect.

M: Thanks. I'm sure that'll be a big help.

W: Your racket could've affected your serve, too. How's this one?

M: It's lighter than the old one, so I can swing it better.

W: That's good. After your break, let's work on your backhand.

M: Sounds good.

W: Don't buy the one with six sockets. It can overheat and cause a fire.

W: You may also need an on-off switch.

M: Right. One with individual switches for each socket will be more economical.

W: I use a similar one, and it really helps save energy.
